

RELEASE AND AUTHORIZATION TO USE THE SCIENTIFIC CONTENT IN RELATION TO YOUR PARTICIPATION/INTERVENTION WITHIN THE EVENT

Given that

- the SEMM Foundation - European School of Molecular Medicine (hereinafter, the "Foundation"), with the logistical and organizational support of the event platform Ibrida.io, carries out the hybrid conference named "EpiSyStem: Stem Cell Epigenetics International Conference", a scientific activity, in the field of study, training and dissemination of the new frontiers of stem cell Epigenetics
- in carrying out this activity, the Foundation intends to create and disseminate, through a series of editorial and / or multimedia supports, also through the creation of an online archive on the SEMM and conference website, conference platform and app, the proceedings, interventions and / or the scientific documentation relating to the aforementioned Event organized by the Foundation;
 - the undersigned is called to participate in the scientific realization of the event in question;
 - with respect to the above, the Foundation is interested in reproducing such contribution;

grants

the Foundation, free of charge, the authorization to reproduce the abstract sent for participation in the aforementioned event for the realization of a product in paper format or on electronic media, intended for publication or in any case for the dissemination of information to the participants via platform and app and in general to the scientific class also via Internet, specialized magazines, audio or video programs at national and international level. S/he acknowledges that the Foundation declines all responsibilities deriving from the fact that the scientific material referred to above, legitimately downloaded from the website, platform and app of the Foundation by subjects authorized to it, is subsequently used by the latter in an improper manner (for example, for commercial purposes).

grants

the authorization to use its own image (also photographic) for the realization of documentation to be distributed to the participants of the event in question or to be published also via internet and therefore to make the audio, video and photographic recording of the same presentation in the event for the production of educational material.

The abstract will be reproduced in full respect of what is contained in them both as regards the scientific results and the information reported, associated with the image and the personal data of the undersigned.

declares

that the abstract that will be published are of its exclusive property and creation and to indemnify the user from any dispute arising from the use of the contents.

However, the above without prejudice to the right to paternity - moral, scientific and cultural - of the abstract, as contemplated and protected by the Law, and such as to allow the author the opposition to any deformation, mutilation or other modification that could prejudice the same or its reputation.